the artist...

Rod Chaplin comes from Southend-on-Sea, Essex, England. He fell in love with reggae music aged 15 when he first set ears upon the huge Conroy Smith hit 'Dangerous'.

Better known as Apocalypse Dub Faction, he began composing dub music back in 1991, working with long-time friends Richard Hamberger (Mystical Warrior) and Andrew Hobbs (Errol De General). He has been collaborating with many artists since then, including Prince Allah, Kenny Knots, Sandeeno, Zebby Blax and Errol Bellot.

Most of his productions have appeared on two labels: Ministry Of Dub and his own MessenJah Music. The latter is also the name of his roots sound system.

the album...

This is the third Dubkey release in a row that starts with a roots song, with the track's respective dub version following it. This time, the singer is Addis Youth (Reuben Addis, Unitone Soundimentional).

Recorded between 2000 and 2005 in England (Essex and Bedford) and Malta (the Mind's Eye Dub melodica part), the tracks here are a splendid showcase of Rod Chaplin's sound: heavy UK militant roots and dub! Rod is the player of most of the instruments, the mixer and the producer of this compilation. Together with the already mentioned artists, assisting Rod on this set are Ben Aarons, Kenny Knots, Prince Allah, Mr Fox and Mystical Warrior.

This is Apocalypse Dub Faction in all its glory! Selah!
