the artist...

Born Lars Brachmann in a suburb of Cologne, Germany, in 1979, Don Goliath started getting into roots music when he was 15. He joined local band Road To Zion on keyboards, and as Sir Larsie I, he released many roots tunes on various record labels.

In 2007 the first Don Goliath releases appeared. He was now doing dubstep music and dubstep-influenced reggae productions which the don describes as "rootsstep". He has released over 20 volumes of his 'Rootsstep To The World' series of albums, with legendary Jamaican toasters like U Roy, Prince Jazzbo, Nigger Kojak, Lone Ranger, Trinity, and Dillinger guesting on some of the tracks.

Dubkey released the 'Calling On Jah' album in July 2014.

the album...

'Calling On Jah' is a compilation of Don Goliath tracks that first appeared on his 'Rootsstep To The World' albums. The singers and DJs on this set - all of them praising Jah Rastafari - are Idren Natural, Shabeel, Masta Jay, DJ Muzikal, Wayne McArthur, and of course Don Goliath himself.

The don is a versatile singer, musician, producer, and remixer with each song here followed by a melodica and a dub version. He has managed to create a unique sound (or style). Roots reggae is the base, but this is relentless sound system music with dubstep influences and auto-tuned vocals that give us a dynamic updated version of the original Jamaican genre.

Check out the rootsstep giant, Don Goliath - big, heavy, and loud, without any apology!
